DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-14, drawn to an accumulator conveyor, classified in class 198, subclass 781.06.
 - III. Claims 10-14, drawn to a method of controlling a sensor position and thus controlling an accumulating conveyor, classified in class 198, subclass 617.
 - II. Claim 15-18, drawn to an actuator cylinder in general, classified in class 92, subclass 181R.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, for example, the holding of the sensor in the down or up position (as required by invention II) can be accomplished through the use of a drive gear or by hand. Invention II does not require that a cylinder with a first and second piston (as claimed in invention I) be used to hold the sensor in the down and up position.
3. Inventions I and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process, for example, the apparatus as claimed in claim III, an actuator cylinder in general, can be used to open and close a door or to elevate a platform.

4. Inventions I and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because invention II (claims 10-14) are evidence claims showing that the particulars of invention III are not required for patentability. The subcombination (invention III) has separate utility such as for use in an apparatus employing the use of an actuator cylinder to provide a force or load, for example, a hydraulic cylinder used to lift the boom of a crane.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
